Advanced Placement courses are rigorous, "entry-level" college course, and include an end-of-course exam. This exam is a National exam, given on the same date & time across the country. Taking one or more of these courses may benefit students in multiple ways, including strengthening eligibility to be accepted to a 4-year university, as well a potentially earning college credits at minimal cost. Acceptance of AP courses & test scores are university dependent. AP end-of-course exam cost must be paid by the deadline given. Deadlines and cost vary year-to-year and are set by College Board. AP courses also go towards the initial 15 credit hours for students participating in CCP. Advanced Placement courses require a commitment from everyone to:

1. Strive for academic excellence
2. Understand & accept the time commitment
3. Participate in end-of-course exams
4. Parent approval & support
5. Teacher approval
